I hope this finds all of our Group members and their families enjoying a safe beginning to the New Year and I wish that the rest of the year will be the same.

As the Commander of Long Island Group, I would like to thank my staff, the squadron commanders and all of their personnel for a great year 2013. As a group we accomplished all of the missions that we were tasked with. We attained our goals of the training of our cadets and senior members, completed many search and rescue missions, aided homeland security and advanced aerospace education to all of our members.

The other things we did as a group were like icing on the cake. We were all involved in the King of Long Island event, which I found to be a very thought provoking event and which ended up in a tie for first place. Kudos to the cadets and seniors who participated in this first-time event.

We had many cadets attend different wing encampments, which is a feather in our group hat. To go to an encampment and be recognized as a top cadet is even better, and some of you did that as well.

There were field trips, community service events, and other things that you did as a squadron or together as a group.

As this year moves forward, we must accept the challenges that we will face with our best foot forward. Take the time to learn new things that will improve your time here in Civil Air Patrol. Work with your fellow members, whether cadets or seniors, to perform the missions asked of us. Most of all, be safe and enjoy your time here in Long Island Group as part of the Civil Air Patrol.

Thanks for your service. You are all greatly appreciated!

Atlantic Pizzeria is not your average neighborhood pizza joint. Beyond the eclectic decor --brick arches, ceramic tile, walls covered with framed images of baseball memorabilia, Old Hollywood and classic rock -- the picture-perfect pizzas are displayed above a case full of particularly luscious-looking specialties: big, fat stuffed artichokes, delicate fried zucchini sticks, bright green broccoli rabe. Most remarkable are the salami (Italian cured sausages): sopressata, both hot and sweet, and cappicola, all of which are made by Teresa Napoli.

Teresa and Rocco Napoli bought Atlantic Pizzeria in 1988, a few years after they returned to Long Island from a decade-long sojourn in their ancestral home, the Calabrian town of Marina di Gioiosa Jonica. Twenty years later, their son Frank runs the store, and his primary responsibility is to support and build upon his mother's artistry.

Frank proudly recounts how when a family would slaughter a pig back in Calabria, they would call upon Teresa to supervise the butchering and make the most out of every part -- the hind legs for ham, the loins for roasts, the shoulder for various salami.

Here on Long Island, Teresa works with American pork; other ingredients -- fennel, hot pepper -- are sent from Calabria, and the small amount of wine called for is made by Rocco. The results are extraordinary -- smoky, spicy, deeply unctuous. "I put my mom's salami up against anyone's," Frank says. "Not everyone appreciates it, but some people do and that's what keeps us alive."

Sinagra Chiropractic Wellness Center

4844 Sunrise Highway
Sayville, NY 11782

631-563-1444

Chiropractic is a Power-Healing art that empowers the patient, NOT the disease.

My name is Dr. Ronald Sinagra and I have been practicing chiropractic on Long Island in Sayville, New York for 20 years. I have published this website to share my philosophies on healing, the services I offer, current health news, and health related articles.

The topics of health and healing have become somewhat bewildering for many people these days. As consumers, we are repeatedly bombarded with drug advertisements, new fad diets, and the latest in a long line of newly contrived syndromes. It is scary. If you have chronic illness and pain, your body is not healing itself.

Rather than addressing the cause of your pain, we are often advised to treat it with drugs. In essence, this prescription only masks the pain; it does not speak to the underlying problem. I believe that people should focus on restoring normal function so the body can heal itself.

This is the core principle of Chiropractic healing: "Remove the obstruction so the body can heal itself." For two decades, my practice has been educating patients to take a proactive approach to body healing.

"The strongest medicine in the world is a healthy body."
